

Test and Tune.com

"The place for Automotive Enthusiasts"

For Immediate Release

Surrey, British Columbia (October 30, 2006) – Test and Tune.com puts the pedal to the metal with the re-launch of their innovative website that is the place to be for all automotive enthusiasts and is free site to the aftermarket community.

Originally launched in 2002 the site was created by businessman and drag race enthusiast Graham Robins Sr. as a place for drag racers to record their time slips as well as other variables online. Since then Test and Tune.com has expanded to become the place to be for auto enthusiasts and includes member features such as a place to share time slip information and manage their cars, share technical information and upload and share car pictures.

Test and Tune.com has also expanded to include a place for Muscle, Sports and Vintage car enthusiasts. Test and Tune.com also provides free classified ads as well as the opportunity to display pictures of your vehicles online. This gives all automotive enthusiasts a chance to show your prized possessions and a chance for discussion in their community forums. TestandTune.com has a strong online community and if you have the need for speed you can see it with their raceway webcams.

As Test and Tune.com continues to expand automotive enthusiasts can look forward to the addition of member solutions including vehicle import/export program, transportation and warehouse & distribution services and border management program - Border Accelerate and an avenue to sell and buy used, obsolete and overstocked parts online.

"We are excited about the growth of the online community and its membership" says Graham Robins Jr., son of the founder, businessman and automotive enthusiast. "As the site is designed as a gathering place and resource for the automotive enthusiasts our focus is on developing member features and solutions around expressed member needs and interests. We encourage everyone to join us and contribute to the community."
